PEMBERLEY COLLECTION

china blue

This design has been adapted from a rare textile sample dating from the 18th Century which was discovered in a farmhouse in Provence. These textiles known as 'China Blues' or 'Bleu Anglais' were block printed with indigo pigment onto a pattern of paste resist to create simple stylised motifs of flowers and fruits. The colourways range from the original indigo to more dramatic, contemporary statements in black and chocolate with lime.

pillemont toile

Chinoiserie designs were popular in Europe in the late 18th and early 19th Century and this pattern originated from that time. It was later re-interpreted as a toile in the 19th Century and has now been used by The Sanderson Studio to create this classic design. Engraved with a subtle block texture to give a softer, more contemporary effect Pillemont Toile is printed in classic blues, aqua and modern cerise and black to create an elegant blend of old and new.

passion flower

A clambering and entwining honeysuckle and passion flower design which echos the silhouette of the background of Limoge. This design has a wonderfully fresh and open feel.

madagascar

This intricate and detailed design has been inspired by the Indienne cottons that were imported to England in the 18th Century. The stylised combinations of fruit and flowers and the delicate batik patterning are characteristic of these fabrics.
